Thank you for emailing the legal department of the American Association of = University Professors. This is an automated confirmation that we have recei= ved your request for information or assistance. We endeavor to respond to e= mails within ten business days; due to the office's small size, immediate r= esponses are rarely possible.

The legal office at AAUP is counsel to the organization; as such, we do not= represent individual faculty members and cannot provide legal counsel, adv= ice, or state-by-state research. We do, however, maintain informational res= ources on a variety of issues. You may also find an answer to your query on= the AAUP website; see <http://www.aaup.org/AAUP/issues/> and <http://www.aaup=>

<http://www.aaup.org/AAUP/programs/legal/>. In addition, we may refer your question to the staff of the AAUP's Committee A on Academic Freedom, Tenure and Governance, who deal with matters related to institutional and AAUP policy, including those relating to denial of tenure and dismissal or termination of appointments; see <http://www.aaup.org/AAUP/issues/AF/>.

The AAUP also maintains a list of attorneys throughout the country who have, we believe, some experience in higher education and employment matters. If you are interested in receiving the names and contact information of attorneys in your area with experience in higher education matters, please email your request to attorneyreferral@aaup.org. Please include the city you are in and any nearby metropolitan areas, as well as a brief description of the issue for which you are seeking a legal referral (i.e., tenure, discrimination, contract issues, intellectual property questions, etc.). Please be aware that the names provided are referrals, not recommendations or endorsements. Again, thank you for contacting the legal department of the AAUP; we look forward to communicating with you.
