

On Dec 21, 2014, at 11:05 AM, Brett Fleisch <bdf951@gmail.com> wrote:

I was tenured in 1997 and my cv is at my web site. I was a Federal employee 2004-2007.

I am protected as a former federal employee under the No Fear Act for the complaints not responded to. Otherwise, an agency can fire federal employees randomly and they would get no protection. Thus, former employees are covered.

The Department of Justice affirms the above proof by a statement of coverage on its web site.