Subject: 3 years of loss time

We are now at three full years going on year 4 on the case you have for me. You should have my complaint including :

You should have my package of information about my case. It contains a 1) a two page statement of complaint 2) Dr. Lippit's P&T report that indicates on page 2 a false separation occurred that was never fixed 3) a judicial complaint about a specious protection order (3 pages) and 4) 12 pages of PowerPoint slides for a lecture on the matter of deprivation of tenure and emeritus rights.

I received your report that you are short staffed. I hope your protection of academic freedom and faculty rights continues with your efforts.

Dear Aaup:

I will be forwarding by US Mail copies of all the letters to lawyers that did not respond or were too busy to represent my case to AAUP. As we move into the fourth year of delay, I do not want negligence accusations to be used against cost reimbursements and salary due me; these could be thrown out against actions being delayed this long. Item 2 in the packing list should be used to show University negligence and your contact with them about the case shows the obstinate behavior that fully justifies continuous compensation throughout the period.

Please see my c.v. on my web site at www.brettfleisch.com/fleisch\_vitae.pdf

Dear Professor Fleisch:

I have reviewed the e-mail messages and the documents you sent us. I regret having to inform you that I see no useful role for the AAUP to play in your situation. The AAUP's staff does not function as an appellate body in academic employment disputes, nor does it represent faculty members in such disputes. The AAUP's primary interest is in advancing sound academic procedural standards protective of academic freedom, and the Association intervenes in situations in which (a) those standards appear to be implicated and (b) some prospect for a resolution that accords with those standards exists. It's not clear to me what, if any, AAUP procedural standards your situation might have implicated. More to the point, however, is that fact that your separation from service at UC Riverside occurred three years ago. Had you contacted us at the time the university was seeking to dismiss you, we may have been able to advise you, depending, again, on the procedural issues. At this late juncture, however, there is nothing we can do to effect an appropriate resolution, the administration no doubt having long considered your case closed.

I am very sorry to have to convey a response which you will doubtless find disappointing.

Sincerely,

Greg Scholtz
