On the right hand pane of my web page, I have a basic article for layman. This article explains a problem in water policy that may be ongoing in several communities in the United States. The advice has been circulated by consultants that are "bonded municipal advisors".

Since, item 12 on the pane is recent, I would encourage you to look over the issue for your community's water district. You may wish to determine if my concerns interest lawyers or others that live in the community.

Please realize the technical article is meant to be "accessible" to layman. I would like the legals to understand the issue and to take action to stop illegal charging of customers.

Best,
Brett D. Fleisch, Ph.D.
