Question: If over a decade the Department just churns positions to make yearly progress, do the administrators look "good" or "bad"?

Question: If due to the issues in the Lazowska report, excellent faculty are recruited away and the positions continue to churn what does it say about the administrators? What about Faculty firing, nonrenewals and churning?

Question: If you are appointed administrator do you think the UC System will reward this or look at it as a departure from the faculty research mission?

Question: How many Associate Professor never were promoted to Professor doing administrative assignments (never rewarded)?
Consequently, how good is the administration on your campus?
